

Paradiddle Development

Walter White

The first stage of PARADIDDLES. A strong down stroke, which freezes in low position in ready for taps. Repeat this exercise till you feel comfortable. Play it again and again, get a flow, a connection with each stroke and movement, a relaxed feeling is your intention with this. To snap the stick low merely pull you fingers to the palm, not too tightly though.

The second stage of paradiddles. A strong down stroke which freezes in position for a low tap. Repeat this exercise till you feel comfortable with it. Play it again and again, get a flow, a connection with each stroke and movement, in a relaxed feeling.

The third stage for paradiddles. Again we have the high "down" stroke with a freeze for the preparation of the low executed doubles.

The seemingly simplest part of the paradiddle. The High down "stroke" and two simple in time taps.

REMEMBER it is NOT

"WHAT we do, but

HOW we do it"

The combination of all the stages for the completed rudiment called the PARADIDDLE!
